Over 230 Men Entombed in Mine.

FIVE WORKERS HAVE BEEN RESCUED ALIVE

Uncertainty Exists Regarding Fate of the Balance.

Denver, Oct. 23.—More than 230 miners were entombed by an explosion in mine No. 2 of the Stag Canon Fuel company at Dawson, N. M. The entombed men included General Superintendent Frank C. McDermott of the mine and several American miners. The cause of the explosion is not known.

Meager advices received were that only five miners had been taken from the upper level alive. These reports said that most of the day shift were employed below the second level, where the shaft was blocked with debris resulting from the explosion.

Accounts from Dawson and Raton were uncertain as to the possibility of rescuing any of the men alive, while a statement issued from the headquarters of Phelps-Dodge & Co. at El Paso, Tex., expressed the hope that most of the entombed men would be found alive.

This belief was based on the fact that the workings of No. 2 mine are connected by a tunnel with mine No. 5, while an airshaft is said to furnish another means of exit.

Immediate relief work was undertaken by men from the night shift and neighboring mines. Appeals for aid started scores of experienced miners from Trinidad and the surrounding coal camps.

Those miners who were employed in other shafts were put to work drilling through the tons of debris, which are said to have blocked the mine below the second level.

It is believed that the explosion occurred on a slope deep within the mine. From conditions which have been met by rescuers since digging into the debris it is now believed that the explosion is plentiful, as it has been found to grow better as the rescuers progress toward deeper portions of the mine.

J. C. Roberts, superintendent of federal mine rescue stations in the Rocky mountain division here, began preparations to depart for Dawson with the rescue car. He also telegraphed Pittsburgh, Kan., and Rock Springs, Wyo., for the aid of rescue cars stationed at those points.

REDFIELD MAKES ATTITUDE CLEAR

Will Probe Cutting of Wages Because of Tariff.

THREATS BECOMING FEWER

Secretary of Commerce Serves Notice on Employers That He Has Not Abandoned His Intention Under Certain Conditions to Investigate Salary Slashes Under New Tariff Compels Retrenchment.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 23.—Notice was served on employers of labor by Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce that he had not abandoned his intention under certain conditions to investigate general reductions of wages made under the plea that the new tariff compelled retrenchment. The secretary voiced his views in an address before the Flint board of commerce.

"When it was suggested some months ago," he said, "that the inquiry powers of the department might under certain conditions be used to learn whether conditions in any general industry were such as to justify a reduction of wages when alleged to be made because of tariff changes there appeared very general comments on the alleged action, which comments were chiefly remarkable for their vigor in dealing with an assumed state of facts that did not exist.

"An attitude of courteous candor, which was not for a moment misunderstood by the gentlemen who were directly concerned, was so altered in the telling of it as to put the department in the position of menacing individuals and establishments with hostile intrusion, if excuse could be found for so doing.

Difficult Results Lacking.
"When the difficult results which prophets of evil foretold did not occur the facile imaginations of some editors led them to say that the secretary of commerce had withdrawn from his attitude.

"The secretary of commerce has done no such thing. The views expressed in the address, because of which all the dust arose, have not been changed and the action that was suggested in that address will be taken if the circumstances suggested therein should arise and seem to make it necessary.

"Meanwhile the department will not be bluffed by those who wish it to err into action which would have for the sole basis of its existence the hope of some that it might make a mistake."

The secretary declared that the threats of reduction in wages as a result of the Underwood tariff law had become fewer of late. That he attributed directly to the declaration of the administration that it would act promptly where such threats were carried out.

Investigation of public utilities corporations, said the secretary, was a line of inquiry his department proposed to begin.

CLARK LECTURES THE HOUSE

Calls Down Hobson For Interrupting Underwood During Their Battle of Words, Which Ends in Heart to Heart Talk—Better Order Among House Members Is Demanded.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The mutterings of members of congress about the hardship of having to remain in Washington at the behest of President Wilson does not disturb that official. He has been away only ten days during the summer, and he thinks he works as hard as any member of either house of congress. He sees no reason why a large body of men cannot keep at work as well as one man. The president has a well defined idea of duty in connection with public business, consequently he has insisted that congress remain in session until its work is finished.

Lecturing the House.

Speaker Clark has found it necessary to lecture the house sharply upon its lax method in preserving order. "No member," he said, "among a lot of other things, 'is permitted to sit in his seat and inject remarks into another's speech. The chair is going to enforce the rules or he will send the sergeant-at-arms to preserve order."

And it was only a few days after this lecture that the Underwood-Hobson debate occurred. Hobson sat in his seat and time after time, in spite of the sharp reproof from Clark, injected remarks into Underwood's speech. Clark called him by name and told him he must stop, but Hobson kept at it until the end.

Point of Order Sustained.

After Underwood and Hobson had flung rocks at each other for quite a long time in the house Austin of Tennessee took the floor for a personal statement. While he was talking Hobson moved over to the aisle next to Underwood, and they soon engaged in an earnest conversation. Jim Mann saw it, as he generally sees everything that goes on in the house, and interrupted Austin.

"I make the point of order," said Mann, "that the two gentlemen from Alabama who have been quarreling for two hours here ought not to make up on the floor of the house at the expense of the gentleman from Tennessee."

"The point of order is well taken," remarked Champ, who likes a bit of humor himself.

"Get Some Rocks."

One day when the house was without a quorum Congressman Sisson of Mississippi, referring to the suggestion that members should be telegraphed to come to Washington, said: "That is not the way to get a quorum. Members will not come back here merely by having straws thrown at them. Sometimes they do not come back when we throw clouds at them. You sometimes have to adopt the old blue backed spelling book story and get some rocks to throw."

Speaks Only For Himself.
John Sharp Williams, having been a minority leader in the house, thought he might have something like the same position in the senate or at least be one of the counselors. In a colloquy with Borah, the Idaho senator having intimated that Williams had been speaking for the Democratic side, Williams said:

"A little before the present administration came into power the senator from Mississippi (himself) did have a sort of glimmering, remote—hardly a hope, but a distant dream—that perhaps he might be of some weight or consideration in connection with what took place on the Democratic side of the senate, but the senator has long given up any idea that he had any right to speak for anybody except himself."

Where They Shine.

Two new members of congress, Montague of Virginia and Abernethy of Alabama, have not been in evidence to any great extent in the discussion of tariff, currency and appropriation bills, but when constitutional questions came up in the house Montague came to the front. When educational matters were discussed Abernethy was right there with the information. It shows that members may not be "up" in some of the political questions, but know a lot about subjects that are not so interesting.

Rules and Common Sense.

There was a parliamentary tangle in the house, and as usual, Fitzgerald was in the thick of it. Adamson of Georgia contributed a sort of homespun idea, and Fitzgerald replied, "You will pardon me, but you do not know the philosophy of the rules."

"I have had too much to do to thoroughly understand parliamentary law," retorted Adamson, "but I know what is common sense in a case like this we have before us."

And, although it may be that Fitzgerald was right, the "common sense" proposition won. The speaker likes that idea sometimes in construing the rules.

Altitudinous.

"Binks appears to have risen high in the world." "Yes. He is even above reproach."—Buffalo Express.

PROSECUTION HAS EVIDENCE ALL IN

Alleged Admiral Eaton Dabbled With Poison.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 23.—Evidence with which the prosecution expects to convict Mrs. Jennie May Eaton of the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, was practically concluded when the government rested its case.

Most of the evidence dealt with statements said to have been made by the defendant in letters and conversations regarding the admiral's alleged habit of dabbling with poisons and his alleged susceptibility where women were concerned.

The last witness, Ralph P. Keys, husband of Mrs. Eaton's oldest daughter June, testified that he once heard Mrs. Eaton tell his wife that the admiral had put away more than one hundred men on his ship at one time by means of poison.

Keys testified that he heard June say she had just had a talk with the admiral in Assinippi and that he told her he was going to Europe soon. June also said, according to her husband's testimony, that the admiral asked her whether she cared if her mother and her husband were put out of the way.

"I'll have to go down and look after him," was Mrs. Eaton's comment in reply to June's story, as Keys heard it.

Keys testified that Mrs. Eaton went to Assinippi the next morning. The admiral died on the following Saturday morning.

The prosecution put in evidence the will of Admiral Eaton. This gives the bulk of his property to Mrs. Eaton.

The committee found, according to the bishop, that many of the missionary organizations overlapped each other.

"We came to the conclusion," he said, "that it would be better for us to have one missionary society operating in the United States, taking the charter of one of the present societies as a foundation, and changing its name to 'The American Board of Catholic Missions.'"

According to reports current here he is likely to return to Havana aboard a Mexican warship and unless the orders from the capital are altered he will be left no choice. In other words, like his uncle, Porfirio Diaz, he is to be deported.

General Diaz was to have been notified on the high sea of the government's wishes, but the captain of the gunboat Zaragoza, who put to sea in the middle of the night with Colonel Vladaurrazaga, secretary to the minister of war, to whom the mission has been entrusted, lost his course. A new captain for the Zaragoza has been named.

In a speech from the balcony of a hotel to a few hundred working men who gathered to greet him, despite police orders against demonstrations, General Diaz reiterated his purpose of continuing the campaign.

His followers say this is impossible in view of the Huerta-Blanquet combination.

WILSON INSISTS ON LONG SESSION

President Not Disturbed by Objections of Congressmen.

CLARK LECTURES THE HOUSE

Calls Down Hobson For Interrupting Underwood During Their Battle of Words, Which Ends in Heart to Heart Talk—Better Order Among House Members Is Demanded.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The mutterings of members of congress about the hardship of having to remain in Washington at the behest of President Wilson does not disturb that official. He has been away only ten days during the summer, and he thinks he works as hard as any member of either house of congress. He sees no reason why a large body of men cannot keep at work as well as one man. The president has a well defined idea of duty in connection with public business, consequently he has insisted that congress remain in session until its work is finished.

Lecturing the House.

Speaker Clark has found it necessary to lecture the house sharply upon its lax method in preserving order. "No member," he said, among a lot of other things, "is permitted to sit in his seat and inject remarks into another's speech. The chair is going to enforce the rules or he will send the sergeant-at-arms to preserve order."

And it was only a few days after this lecture that the Underwood-Hobson debate occurred. Hobson sat in his seat and time after time, in spite of the sharp reproof from Clark, injected remarks into Underwood's speech. Clark called him by name and told him he must stop, but Hobson kept at it until the end.

Point of Order Sustained.

After Underwood and Hobson had flung rocks at each other for quite a long time in the house Austin of Tennessee took the floor for a personal statement. While he was talking Hobson moved over to the aisle next to Underwood, and they soon engaged in an earnest conversation. Jim Mann saw it, he is generally seen everything that goes on in the house, and interrupted Austin.

"I make the point of order," said Mann, "that the two gentlemen from Alabama who have been quarreling for two hours here ought not to make up on the floor of the house at the expense of the gentleman from Tennessee."

"The point of order is well taken," remarked Champ, who likes a bit of humor himself.

"Get Some Rocks."

One day when the house was without a quorum Congressman Sisson of Mississippi, referring to the suggestion that members should be telegraphed to come to Washington, said: "That is not the way to get a quorum. Members will not come back here merely by having straws thrown at them. Sometimes they do not come back when we throw clods at them. You sometimes have to adopt the old blue backed spelling book story and get some rocks to throw."

Speaks Only For Himself. John Sharp Williams, having been a minority leader in the house, thought he might have something like the same position in the senate or at least be one of the counselors. In a colloquy with Borah, the Idaho senator having intimated that Williams had been speaking for the Democratic side, Williams said:

"A little before the present administration came into power the senator from Mississippi (himself) did have a sort of glimmering, remote—hardly a hope, but a distant dream—that perhaps he might be of some weight or consideration in connection with what took place on the Democratic side of the senate, but the senator has long given up any idea that he had any right to speak for anybody except himself."

Where They Shine.

Two new members of congress, Montague of Virginia and Abernethy of Alabama, have not been in evidence to any great extent in the discussion of tariff, currency and appropriation bills, but when constitutional questions came up in the house Montague came to the front. Where educational matters were discussed Abernethy was right there with the information. It shows that members may not be "up" in some of the political questions, but know a lot about subjects that are not so interesting.

Rules and Common Sense.

There was a parliamentary tangle in the house, and, as usual, Fitzgerald was in the thick of it. Adamson of Georgia contributed a sort of homespun idea, and Fitzgerald replied, "You will pardon me, but you do not know the philosophy of the rules."

"I have had too much to do to thoroughly understand parliamentary law," retorted Adamson. "but I know what is common sense in a case like we have before us."

And although it may be that Fitzgerald was right, the "common sense" proposition won. The speaker likes that idea sometimes in construing the rules.

PROSECUTION HAS EVIDENCE ALL IN

Alleged Admiral Eaton Dabbled With Poison.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 23.—Evidence with which the prosecution expects to convict Mrs. Jennie May Eaton of the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, was practically concluded when the government rested its case.

Most of the evidence dealt with statements said to have been made by the defendant in letters and conversations regarding the admiral's alleged habit of dabbling with poisons and his alleged susceptibility where women were concerned.

The last witness, Ralph P. Keys, husband of Mrs. Eaton's oldest daughter June, testified that he once heard Mrs. Eaton tell his wife that the admiral had put away more than one hundred men on his ship at one time by means of poison.

Keys testified that he heard June say she had just had a talk with the admiral in Assinippi and that he told her he was going to Europe soon.

June also said, according to her husband's testimony, that the admiral asked her whether she cared if her mother and her husband were put out of the way.

"I'll have to go down and look after him," was Mrs. Eaton's comment in reply to June's story, as Keys heard it.

Keys testified that Mrs. Eaton went to Assinippi the next morning. The admiral died on the following Saturday morning.

The prosecution put in evidence the will of Admiral Eaton. This gives the bulk of his property to Mrs. Eaton.

CENTRAL BODY FOR MISSIONS

Bishop Canevin Urges Plan Before Catholic Congress.

Boston, Oct. 23.—A central commission to control the missionary work of the Catholic church in the United States is favored by a committee which is investigating the subject.

Bishop Regis Canevin of Pittsburgh, who discussed the subject before the Catholic missionary congress, told the delegates that the missionary situation had been studied by a committee of three appointed by the board of governors of the church extension society.

The committee found, according to the bishop, that many of the missionary organizations overlapped each other.

"We came to the conclusion," he said, "that it would be better for us to have one missionary society operating in the United States, taking the charter of one of the present societies as a foundation, and changing its name to the American Board of Catholic Missions."

Candidate for President May Be Deported.

SAYS HE WILL MAKE CAMPAIGN

Nephew of Porfirio Diaz Lands on Mexican Soil in Defiance of an Intimation From the Huerta Government That He Proceed to Some Other Port.

Vera Cruz, Oct. 23.—General Felix Diaz, in defiance of the intimation of the government that he proceed to Tampico aboard the steamer Corcovado and there disembark, has decided to remain at Vera Cruz, at least temporarily.

According to reports current here he is likely to return to Havana aboard a Mexican warship and unless the orders from the capital are altered he will be left no choice. In other words, like his uncle, Porfirio Diaz, he is to be deported.

General Diaz was to have been notified on the high sea of the government's wishes, but the captain of the gunboat Zaragoza, who put to sea in the middle of the night with Colonel Vladaurazaga, secretary to the minister of war, to whom the mission has been entrusted, lost his course. A new captain for the Zaragoza has been named.

In a speech from the balcony of a hotel to a few hundred working men who gathered to greet him, despite police orders against demonstrations, General Diaz reiterated his purpose of continuing the campaign.

SAYS SHERMAN ACT FAILS

Charles R. Van Hise Discusses Present Tendencies.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23.—"The trap of the Sherman act to catch trusts has never caught a fox for twenty years and only smells in one or two places of a tail or leg," declared President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin at the sixteenth annual session of the American Mining congress in session here, in a discussion of "Big Business in Its Relation to Industrial Prosperity."

"Notwithstanding that fact it is proposed to strengthen its 'springs' and sharpen its 'teeth' with the expectation that it will then catch a sufficient number of foxes to become the solution of the great fundamental problem of concentration of industry."

"I can tell you, gentlemen, that the tendency for co-operation in this Twentieth century is so much stronger than the tendency for competition that you will never restore the latter in the old sense."

BRIDGE TO BE BUILT SOON

Six Hundred Foot Long Structure to be Built Over Narrows of Rabbit Lake at Cuyuna

$18,000 PAYDAY AT CUYUNA

Victor Rantalla Gets Contract to Build Road—Denny McCoy's
Fatal Fall Down Stairs

Cuyuna, Minn., Oct. 23.—The bridge to be constructed over the narrows of Rabbit lake will be built as soon as the ice is of sufficient thickness to hold a pile driver. The structure is to be 600 feet long and its erection will do much to bring trade to Cuyuna which now travels long distances around the lake to other points.

The village council has voted to pay a bonus of $800 for the sale of its $10,000 sewer bonds. If taken up, the improvements will be commenced this season.

Payday at the Kennedy mine meant a disbursement of $18,000 this month. Then in addition there was the money paid out by the drills working at and in the vicinity of Cuyuna.

To Victor Rantalla has been let the contract for the building of a road to the bridge, starting from Minnesota avenue.

Coroner Charles G. Osterlund, of Deerwood, declared that Denny Mc-Coy came to his death accidentally McCoy fell down the stairs of the Cuyuna hotel and was found dead next morning, his neck having been broken.

J. F. Nemetz has been attending to business matters at Moose Lake.
Mayor H. K. Dimmick was at Brainerd Wednesday attending to business matters.

Cuyuna is to have a new jail and prisoners formerly sent to Crosby or Deerwood will be quartered at Cuyuna.

Cuyler Adams has drills at work within the village limits.

Mr. Bushey, of Malmo, is erecting a two-story building on lot 13, block 3 of Oak Hill addition and will start a butcher shop. Water mains are being laid into the new addition.
Lots are selling well.

The Locker-Donahue Co., of Duluth, owners of much realty in Cuyuna, are doing much to interest people in Cuyuna and the sound business conditions of the town and its many advantages and opportunities for growth impress all visitors.

The Kennedy mine will in 1914 ship at least 300,000 tons. A full crew is at work and more men are being added.

Agricultural Extension of University Will Provide Same if Proper Request is Made

FARMERS ARE NEEDED

Alfalfa and Potatoes Probably Discussed Second Week in December

The Editor:—I learn from some of the officials that we can obtain a short course of Agricultural Extension of the University of Minnesota here, provided we can get a proper request signed by seventy-five farmers.

Believing that such a course would be highly beneficial to Brainerd and Crow Wing county, petitions have been prepared as follows: "We, the undersigned citizens of Brainerd, Minn., during the second week of December next or as early as that date as instructors can be obtained. We pledge ourselves to give all or part of our family attendance session."

Copies of the petition will be left at the leading stores where farmers trade and at the creameries in Brainerd and sent in the country to be signed if parties interested will take the trouble to circulate them. Petitions can be obtained at my place in the Gardner block. There will be no cost for above "course," except a place for meeting which I resume citizens of Brainerd will provide.

Every woman who is troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney troubles should use Electric Bitters. They give relief when nothing else will, improve the health, adding strength and vigor from the first dose. Mrs. Laura J. I did so and they have done me a world of good." Just try them, 50c. and $1.00 at all druggists or by mail. H. E. Bucklen & Co., Philadelphia or St. Louis.—Advt.

John Henderland, who plead guilty to being drunk was fined $5 or 5 days in jail.

The cases of Harry Pavlicka and Milo Pavlicka, his wife, each charged with selling liquor without a license, were called in the morning and each demanded an examination. Each waived arraignment and the cases were continued to October 25 at 11 A. M.

Charles Dugan, charged with assault, plead guilty and was fined $10 or 10 days in jail.

Harvey Anderson plead guilty to being drunk and was fined $5 or 5 days. This judge suspended sentence.

The steers averaged about 1,050 pounds. In speaking of Mr. Wise's herd of cattle, Mr. Koering, who has a butcher's eye for good stock, said he had never seen finer Herefords that were exemplified in the herd of 96 at the North Long Lake farm.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

One of Tuesday's Hostesses, Mrs. E. P. Slipp, Entertained for Miss Sheridan

One of Tuesday's hostesses was Mrs. E. P. Slipp, who gave a birthday party at her residence, for Miss Ina Sheridan.

Ferns predominated in the drawing room and pink and white was the color scheme in the diningroom, carnations being the chosen flower. Before refreshments were served the guests adjourned to an adjoining room, where Miss Sheridan was agreeably surprised in the receiving of some very pretty gifts. The guests were invited to the dining room at 5:30 and the usual merriment followed in the finding of places.

The place cards, painted by Mrs. Charles Conant, of Wells, Minn., contained tiny landscapes in autumn coloring.

The birthday cake, made by Mrs. M. L. Slipp, was white fruit cake, surmounted by twenty-two pink and white candles.

After the first courses were served, Miss Sheridan with dignity and grace cut the cake, which with the ices, was passed to the respective guests, by Mrs. G. D. LaBar and Mrs. J. M. Elder, who had charge of the tables.

At the close of refreshments the guests were requested to make a wish, while endeavoring to blow out the candles, fully understanding that she, who first succeeded in doing so, would be the first to be married. Miss Sheridan was fortunate enough to be first in the contest, so we firmly believe that Fate has decreed, that she, in the near future, will be called upon to lighten and brighten the life of some lonely man. As we are all hoping Miss Sheridan will not return to England, we trust the lonely man will be a Brainerd man.

Among those who were served at seven o'clock were J. M. Elger, G. D. LaBar, D. E. Whitney and George Ribbel.

"The Virginian"

Theatre goers interested in plays of love and adventure have a treat in store for them when Jones and Crane's latest and most pretentious offering "The Virginian" will be presented at the Brainerd opera houses on Sunday evening, October 26. Plays that can make discriminating Broadway audiences go time and again must possess charm above the ordinary. "The Virginian" has succeeded in doing that rare thing of pleasing both the critics and the public. Seldom has a play been produced in recent years that has met with such unqualified approval at the hands of the metropolitan press. Broadway critics who are noted for their discrimination and in the slang of the street "must be shown," were unstinted in their praise and proclaimed "The Virginian" as the long looked for American play.

Sweetly throbbing with humanity, with quiet charm and great dramatic moments it unravels a story with great dexterity, at the same time making the characters pure and sincere in their primary notions, a real test of subtle stage character drawing. It possesses a rare charm of pleasing all classes and therein lies its remarkable success. The cast that will present it here has been selected with unusual care and is particularly happy in its interpretation of the different characters. The mounting is
